

The Tortoise (2021)

Acrylic on canvas 32” x 32”

I believe in the policies of Labour and vote Labour. This is a painting about the suppression of society by a Conservative Government, which is gradually eroding away and constricting the rights of the populace, which would not happen under a Labour Government. The caveman eating the apple represents Adam in the Garden of Eden, and it was this choice that has led to man's downfall. The tortoise symbolizes that there is a lot of work to be done in order to create a utopian Democratic society!

A bolt from the blue (2020)
Acrylic on canvas, 34”x 42”

This painting is about the fact that society should allow free enterprise, for example being allowed to sell paintings on the street without a permit! The Uncle Sam is homeless and represents a breakdown of society, along with the robbers and police chase symbolizing a high crime rate. If free enterprise is allowed and people are given more opportunities this would not happen so much, and a freer Democratic society would create a more Utopian world! Talking about empowerment, there is an Israeli based company called “Watergen” that has invented machines that can produce water out of thin air. Water can be produced as long as the air has a minimum moisture content of 20%. Maybe these machines could solve the world’s drought problem!

Humpty Dumpty (2016)

Acrylic on canvas 40" x 40"

Humpty Dumpty symbolizes the apathy in the population that the withering and dithering of Governments and lack of assertive positive action creates. They know the answer about how to combat climate change yet they refuse to act. The British Government for example is talking about setting up a new oil rig in the North Sea. Where is the logic in this regarding the solution to climate change? The groaning tree symbolizes the destruction of nature. Talking about empowerment, how about all the worlds billionaires club together and set up food distribution companies to the worlds starving by dropping food parcels in the countries where the people are starving! In comparison to what they earn it would not cost the billionaires much to do this!"
